CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

Three Republicans in Ring For Seats From the Old Dominion

PROHIBITION I S S U E

Colored Voters Enter Protest Against Lily White Plan of Leaders of the Party

Republican candidates for Congress in the various districts of Virginia will have to be named before August 8th of this year, and so far there are three nominees in the field—W. R. Vawter, of Henrico, for the Third District, Robert H. Angell, of Roanoke, in the Sixth District and Joseph L. Crupper in the Eighth District.

The nomination of Congressman Slemp to succeed himself in the Ninth will make the entry of four Republicans into the contest a certainty. There will be some others, of course, but up to this time these are the Republicans who are seeking to represent Virginia in the lower branch of Congress.

What is of particular interest at this time is the naming of a man to represent the Democrats in the Ninth District in the race for Congress against Congressman Slemp, who appears to have foreclosed on the seat for sometime past, but who is compelled to resist the effort every time to pry him loose from the $7,500, a year—and the honor. This is presidential year, and the prospects for a big vote affords a possibility of Democratic success.

Delegate O. E. Jordan, of Pulaski, is the man who is being mentioned for the nomination. He comes from the extreme eastern end of the district, and is about as well known as any man in that section of the State He is said to be willing to make the race, and if he does he will receive the solid backing of the Democrats of the Ninth—the fighting Ninth, as it is called. Mr. Jordan is the man who had charge of the prohibition bill in the last Legislature in the House, and piloted it through that body. He has been in the Legislature for some years, is well liked and is a man of considerable ability and capacity.

The Second District is the one in which the Democrats are busy. There is no telling who will not be in the race before the final date for making nominations shall close.

Congressman E. E. Holland, of Suffolk, is out for another term, and he is making all the time possible in pressing his campaign.

Colonel J. Peter Holland, of the of Wright, is another aspirant for the honor, and then there are former Congressman Harry L. Maynard, of Portsmouth; former Congressman William A. Young, of Norfolk, who are flirting with the nomination. Colonel George C. Cabell, of Norfolk, is being exposed to the nomination by his friends, and John N. Sebrell, of Norfolk, is also threatened with followers to support him if he will make the race.

The colored Republicans will not accept the lily-white plan which is being promoted in Virginia. They object to being shut out from participation in the affairs and policies of the organization to which they have given allegiance for many years. The colored Republicans are not very numerous it is true, but the better class of colored men are paying more attention to matters in which they are interested now than formally. They realize that it is merit, intelligence and interest in the city and State which prompts them to take their part in selections of officials, and they are paying more attention to voting than for years.

Because of the refusal of admittance to the district meeting in Richmond the colored Republicans have announced that they will not support the Republican nominee for Congress in that district. It is expected that they will send a contesting delegation to Chicago, and it is believed that the delegation will stand for the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt for President.

Republicans of the Fifth District are casting about for a candidate to oppose Congressman E. W. Saunders, of Franklin county. It is known that Senator B. A. Davis, of Franklin has been approached for the nomination, and he is considering the matter. Senator Davis is well known in that section, is one of the men who supported the prohibition movement and has always taken a prominent part in the affairs of that section. He served in the Constitutional Convention.

The Fifth District has given trouble to the Democrats on many occasions and Congressman Saunders has had one or two close calls. The fact that he is not personally in accord with the policies of President Wilson has created some opposition to him in his own party, Delegate S. T. A. Kent, of Halifax, considering the proposition to make the race against him for the nomination. Until the latter county was added to the Fifth District the Democrats always had a hard fight to win.

ORDERED TO RESIGN.

Pastor Alleged to Have Kissed Young Woman of His Congregation.

Cedar Grove, N. J., April 1.—For kissing the pretty daughter of a trustee of his congregation, the Rev. J. Lewis Evans, pastor of the Congregational Church, of Cedar Grove, was ordered to resign "at once" by a resolution adopted at a meeting of the standing committee and the trustees.

Miss Maud Jacobus, daughter of Edward A. Jacobus, a trustee, was not at the meeting, nor was Mr. Evans, but the young woman was represented by her father and her uncle, Herbert H. Jacobus, chairman of the trustees, and the clergyman was represented by the Rev. Charles W. Carroll, pastor at large of the church in that section of the State. Mr. Evans remained in the parsonage with his wife and heard the news later.

The kissing incident is said to have occurred soon after Mr. Evans was called to the Cedar Grove church at Washington, N. J., last December. Miss Jacobus, one of the most popular young women in the borough and soprano in the choir, was carrying a framed picture upstairs, Mr. Evans, who is 55 and rather stout, was coming down.

The stairway is narrow .They met in the middle and in squeezing past Miss Jacobus said, the pastor threw his arms about her, hugging her tightly, and kissed her "right on the lips," She says she ran upstairs and soon he entered the same room, and again kissed her, cautioning her not to make an outcry because his wife and her mother were downstairs.

A few days later Mr. Evans and Miss Jacobus met in the church. No one else was there, and she said the pastor again kissed her and continued to do so until she was able to free herself and run out. Miss Jacobus informed her father, who took the matter up directly with Mr. Evans.

"I admit I kissed her," he quoted the pastor as saying, "but it was a mere boyish prank and it will not happen again."

"You're pretty old for boyish pranks," said Mr. Jacobus.

The Jacobus family wished to avoid unpleasant publicity, but the aunt of the girl told a friend. When Mr. Evans met the aunt with a group of other women in the street a week or two ago he asked her why she did not attend services and she replied:

"Because you are not fit to conduct services."

The trustees then took action.

ASKS BERLIN FOR INFORMATION

United States Sends Inquiry Concerning Steamer Sussex

FRIENDLY IN TENOR

This Government Will Take No Action Until All Facts in the Case Are At Hand.

Berlin, April 1,—James W. Gerard, American ambassador, has presented to the Foreign Office his government's request for information as to whether any German submarine had torpedoed the cross-channel steamer Englishman. The answer, according to the Overseas News Agency, will be delayed for some time, in order to allow the naval authorities to make the necessary investigations.

The tenor of the note handed the Foreign Office by the ambassador is friendly throughout.

The American embassy, in addition to requesting information concerning the steamers Sussex, and Englishman, also has asked the Foreign Office regarding a third steamer, the Manchester Engineer.

Washington, April 1.—President Wilson and his cabinet yesterday discussed the evidence thus far received by the State Department in cases of disaster to merchant ships carrying American citizens. In the absence of conclusive proof of submarine attacks, no action was taken It is understood that the course to be pursued by the United States, should the indications be sustained by evidence now being gathered was considered at length. After the meeting it was said authoritatively no step involving serious consequence was taken, and it was determined to proceed only after definite facts were before it, and that there should be no action unless there was positive proof that a submarine commander had acted in violation of the principles of international law.

Secretary Lansing made it clear that he believed four or five days might elapse before the desired information was received. A press dispatch received from Berlin announcing that Ambassador Gerard had presented to the Berlin Foreign Office inquiry as to whether a German submarine had attacked the Sussex or the British horse ship Englishman was read with interest in official circles.

The statement in the dispatch that the reply might be delayed bore out the opinion of officials that all the commanders of cruisers at the time of the disaster had not reported.

It was said at the State Department that no dispatch of importance regarding any cases of the disasters had been received.

Chairman Stone, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Chairman Flood, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, went over the submarine situation fully with Secretary Lansing yesterday at an early conference.

The situation with Germany was described officially as not being "imminent," and it was said that the two committee chairmen had not come to the State Department by appointment, but had come separately, seeking information for the guidance of members of Congress.

DETECTIVES FIND $7,800.

Dr. Waite Indicted for Murder of John E. Peck.

New York, April 1—The district attorney's search for buried treasure out at the far end of Long Island resulted in the discovery of $7,800 hidden by Eugene Oliver Kane, This was part of the money that Arthur Warren Waite had given to Kane with the expectation that he had succeeded in bribing Kane to falsify samples of embalming fluid, and so deceive the authorities as to the cause of the death of John E. Peck.

There should have been $9,000 in a perfectly intact roll, for that is the sum which Waite insists he gave to Kane, and which Kane says he understood was in the roll when Waite thrust it into his nervous hands. For the present, Kane has no other explanation for the missing $1,200 than that he was too flustered to count the money that Waite forced on him.

Dr. Waite was indicted yesterday afternoon for murder in the first degree. The indictment handed down by the March grand jury contains two counts. Waite is formally accused of premeditatively murdering with arsenic, and "other poisons," John E. Peck, his father-in-law, on March 12, 1916 ,Arsenic is specifically referred to, as well as other poisons unknown to the grand jury. Waite will be arraigned on Monday morning.

Fay Schindler, head of the private detective agency retained by the Peck family, made a further search of Dr. Waite's apartment at 435 Riverside Drive yesterday afternoon, and reported that he found in a locked closet in Waite's study several sealed glass tubes containing disease cultures. Schindler said that among the cultures found were bacilli of tetanus, pneumonia, tuberculosis, typhus, and Asiatic choera.

Memoranda in Dr. Waite's handwriting and describing the effect of arsenic when administered in various size doses, were obtained by Schindler, he said.

Waite's relatives, friends and legal advisers are hard at work preparing evidence that he is of unsound mind. Their first principal step will be to apply for a commission to examine him.

Judge Swann, after numerous conferences with Waite, insists that the dentist is perfectly sane, and that justice demands he must be tried for murder in the first degree.

FOLLOWING IN WAKE OF VILLA

U. S. Troops Lessening Distance Between Them and Bandit

BAND IS SCATTERED

Fugitive Said to Have Been Shot Through Leg and Crushed Hip in Fall From Horse.

El Paso, April 1.—Villa, the bandit terror of the Sierras, today is believed to be but a step in advance of the troopers, of Colonel Dood's Seventh Cavalry, bent upon his capture, dead or alive.

Villa and the remants of his band, separated by the engagement with the American forces at San Geronimo, were believed to be hiding in the fastness of the Continental Divide. They are probably making their way by slow stages to some stronghold known only by Villa.

Colonel Dodd's command is literally "stripped for action." The four men wounded in the engagement in which thirty-one Villistas were killed have been sent to the rear. Dodd and his men are living off the country. They are foraging for food for their horses. They have but one object in mind—to bring back Villa.

Brigadier General Bell's information here was that Villa was shot through the leg and that he later suffered a crushed hip in a fall from his horse. He escaped from Colonel Dodd in a rig.

While Villa might elude the American forces indefinitely in the trackless mountain wilderness within the Guerrero district, Dodd's 17 hour ride of 55 miles to make a surprise attack on the bandit camp is considered an ill-omen for the outlaw's chances. His capture was regarded by army officers today as a matter of hours, or a few days at the utmost.

If his wounds are as serious as reported, the possibility was discussed here of Villa perhaps dying from lack of medical attention.

He was officially said to be permanently disabled and his power broken by Wednesday's rout.

Washington, April 1.—Gen. Pershing told the story of the crushing defeat administered to Villa's bandits in the following official report to Gen. Funston:

"San Geronimo Ranch, March 30.—Dodd struck Villa's command, consisting of 500, 6 o'clock, March 29, at Guerroro, Villa, who is suffering from a broken leg and lame hip, was not present. Number Villa's dead known to be thirty. Probably others carried away dead. Dodd captured two machine guns, large number of horses, saddles and arms, Our casualties four enlisted men wounded, none seriously.

Attack was surprise, the Villa troops being driven in a ten-mile running fight and retreated to mountains northwest of railroad, where they separated into small bands. Large number Carranzista prisoners who were being held for execution were liberated during the fight. In order to reach Guerroro, Dodd marched 55 miles in 17 hours, and carried on fight for five hours. Eliseo Hernandez, who commanded Villa's troops, was killed in fight.

"With Villa permanently disabled, Lopez wounded and Hernandez dead the blow administered is a serious one to Villa's band.

SHOOTS DOWN HIS SON

Farmer Pursues His Boy After Drinking Cider At Home Of Neighbor

Westminster, Md., April 1—Albert Gibson, a farmer, returned to his home at Smallwood yesterday afternoon and in a fit of anger over a trivial argument pursued his son, Earl Gibson, 19 years old, for some distance over his farm, finally shooting him with a large gun. The boy's mother looked on as the tragedy was about to be consumated and saved him from death by deflecting the aim of the gun.

The father had been visiting at the home of a neighbor and while there took a quantity of hard cider. On his return home the family noticed his condition. An argument started between father and son and the former announced that he was going to get his shotgun and settle the argument. As he returned to the first floor with the gun, the son ran out the back door. The elder Gibson pursued. Some distance away the son halted, thinking the father would not shoot. As the father drew close to the son he raised the gun to his shoulder and took aim at the young man's head. Mrs. Gibson seized her husband's arm as he pulled the trigger and the muzzle of the gun was deflected downward.

The heavy load of shot entered both of young Gibson's legs. He fell to the ground and his mother ran to his side and remained between her husband and son, preventing the former from shooting at the son again. The father returned home and remained there until arrested.

Young Gibson was taken home and a physician summoned. He is in a serious condition.

WAS SEEKING REVENGE

Schiller Admits He Plotted a Little War on His Own Account.

Lewes, Del., April 1.—With the Appam capture as his inspiration, Ernest Schiller, the crack-brained young German, who single-handed, captured the British steamship Matopoo and its crew of 56 men on the high sea, confessed yesterday that robbery and revenge was his underlying motive.

Schiller admits that he plotted a little war on his own account, with just enough war in it to lift his exploit out of the category of common crimes, but with the main purpose of holding up some rich passenger ship prize for all the money on board, and square his account with the English for having arrested him in Hull, England, as a German spy a year ago.

He was so disgusted with his mistake and failure, and the trifling amount of his loot, that he did not consider it either worth the while or necessary to cloak his petty crime with the war measure of beaching the British steamship.

His only hope now is that the United States authorities will take him in charge and not surrender him to the British. This was the only condition under which he agreed yesterday afternoon to make a full and detailed confession of his entire exploit to Detective Val W. Correll, of New York.

Resolutions to appoint a committee to induce colored men to pay their capitation tax proir to May 4th., in order to vote in the November election prevailed; also to make Hotel Jackson the headquarters for the Wm. B. Allison Campaign Club, during the campaign. The conference was represented by every county, with Wm. A. Carter, president and W .N. Jackson, secretary.

GERMANS SHIFT THEIR OFFENSIVE

Gain Footing in French Trenches, But Are Quickly Ousted

CAPTURED A VILLAGE

Bombardments in Region Northwest of City of Verdun Have Greatly Slackened.

Having captured the village of Malancourt, the Germans now have shifted their offensive eastward to the sector around the famous Le Mort Homme. With heavy forces the Teutons have attacked the French line between hill 295 and Le Mort Homme and succeeded in entering French first-line trenches. A vigorous counterattack by the French, however, almost immediately expelled the invaders, and another attack by the Teutons, delivered a little later, is declared by Paris to have been put down completely.

The Germans have made no attempt to debouch from Malancourt since their occupation of the village. The heavy bombardments of preceding days in the region northwest of Verdun have greatly slackened, and there also has been only moderate activity by the big guns to the north and the east of the fortress.

Paris, April 1.—The Germans, in a fierce attack on French positions northeast of hill No. 295, in the Le Mort Homme region, some three miles east of Malancourt, gained a footing in some of the French first-line trenches, but were immediately driven out in a vigorous counterattack, according to the French official communication. The Germans have made no attempt to debouch from Malancourt, which they hold.

Berlin, April 1.—Capture of the village of Malancourt, in the Verdun region, west of the Meuse, was announced by the War Office. The Germans took 328 prisoners.

A JOYOUS OCCASION

Like Washington in having her glad week with the story of Pollyanna the glad book, being portrayed, Alexandria will have its glad evening, or Monday next, when the Bentztown Bard, Mr. Folger McKinsey, will be here at the Westminster Building. Everyone who is familiar with the gladsome philosophy of his lines may have the treat of hearing the bard himself interpret them. The key-note to his own personality is found in many of his stanzas:

If it's the rain, why then the rain
And so if it's the sun
Whatever comes, love comes again
When grief and gloom are done
If it's the storm of chill and cold,
Why, that's the thing for me—
And wisdom comes when life is old
With this philosophy.

There will also be an exceptionally attractive musical program, in which Mr. and Mrs. Whitman and Miss Polkinhone of Washington and Mrs. Harrie White, Mrs. Sherman Fowler, and Mr. Wilmer Waller will take part. The entertainment is for the benefit of the free kindergarten where a number of small children have been attending regularly. The admission to the entertainment is twenty-five cents.

Episcopal Preaching Mission

The Rev. Dr. Hall will preach in Grace Church at 11 o'clock service tomorrow. He will preach in Christ Church at 4 o'clock for men only. In order to accommodate the people who will attend, the service at night (8 p. m.) will be in St. Paul's church. The other two churches will be closed and this will be Dr. Hall's last service in the series, at which there has been a large attendance.

ROANOKE CONVENTION

Plans For Selection of Delegates Considered By City Democratic Committee

Alexandria Democrats who are anxious to represent their party at the State Democratic convention which will be held in Roanoke on June 2d, will not only have to pay their expenses out of their own pockets, but will be required to deposit $5 for the privilege of entering a Democratic primary, which may be held for the purpose of selecting the delegates. The latter part of the proposition is uncertain, as the city is entitled to ten representatives and ten alternates and it is not expected that there will be such a rush for the honors as will make it necessary to hold the primary.

Plans for the selection of the delegates were considered last night at a meeting of the city Democratic committee held in the office of Howard W. Smith, Charles Bendheim, chairman, presided and the following members were present: Theodore Cook, Samuel G. Brent, Oscar Phillips, Howard W. Smith, Capt. Albert Bryan and S. P. Fisher.

On motion of Samuel G. Brent, the committee unanimously endorsed the administration of President Woodrow Wilson, his foreign policies and pledged its support to him.

The Zeppelin's crew surrendered when British patrol boats approached, and were made prisoners. The Zeppelin broke up immediately and sank.

The dirigible brought down is believed to have been the one reported over London last night, shortly before the theaters began to discharge their crowds.

DREAM OF INVASION OF ENGLAND.

There is no doubt that the Kaiser two years ago was bent upon the invasion of England. He was subsequently bent upon taking Calais and Dunkirk. Recently he has been as firmly determined to take Verdun. These objectives are as far away as ever, although thousands of lives have been sacrificed in futile attempts to make his dreams end in fruition.

It is a mooted question whether or not Napoleon ever cherished the dream of invading England. It is true he massed men at Boulogne and gazed through field glasses at Albion, but he was of too practical a mind to embark for the other side of the channel. The Kaiser, naturally, is of a precipitate spirit. He might launch the movement, but cooler heads among the Teutons are probably deterring him from such a foolhardy act.

It is not necessary to discuss seriously the plans credited to Germany for an invasion of England. The peril is negligible so long as the British fleet holds the seas. As a cotemporary suggests, there is not much doubt that such plans were in the course of consideration long before the war broke out. It was the obvious strategical move for Germany to make. Her dreadnought competition with England was dictated by a realization of this fact. All her strength on the land availed nothing so far as England was concerned. The purpose of the submarine campaign has been to cut off supplies, which would accomplish practically as much as invasion and speedily bring England to her knees. That purpose has failed. The one thing left is the destruction of the British fleet. To accomplish this would be worth almost any sacrifice That the German naval authorities believe it can be accomplished is in the highest degree unlikely. They understand perfectly well the British superiority; they know how closely the North Sea waters are guarded. As for the transport of troops in sufficient numbers for invasion ,they realize the impossibility.

Yet the same policy which dictated the attack on Verdun, at a fearful sacrifice of life, may send the German fleet into conflict with the British. Should the former win a victory, then indeed the British sea power, would collapse and Invasion might follow. Such an assumption is credible only on the ground that the British fleet is not prepared to cope with a long foreseen emergency. There is no evidence of this. The long watch has been trying enough, but the men have been relieved from time to time and there is every reason to believe that in a battle they would give a good account of themselves. It is quite possible that a few German ships might break through the blockade on a favorable opportunity, but they would not get far. Certainly the whole German fleet could not come out unobserved. It could make a desperate dash, but it would almost inevitably be overwhelmed. Only a counsel of despair would suggest submitting it to such a test.

LAUNCHING OF A RENAISSANCE.

The Seventh Street Christian Church of Richmond, has purchased a motion picture machine and gave its first public motion picture performance last night. The movies will be absolutely free to the public. The churches of Richmond say they have been driven to this step by the degrading character of pictures which have been shown of late by the movie theaters of this city, It is expected that other churches of the city will purchase motion picture machines and give performances regularly. The movement may spread over the State.

In the early centuries of the Christian era attempts were made by the church to moralize the drama. Christian people of that time were doing substantially what their descendants are doing now—capturing worldly amusements and baptizing them. At that time pastors were actors as well as preachers, and "The Passion Play" of Oberammergau is but an echo of the early days of the church.

About a score of years ago a citizen of Alexandria approached the Mayor on the morning of the twenty-second of February and put this question to him: "How is it that you make me pay for a license tax for conducting a restaurant, and yet upon such occasions as this, when thousands of strangers come to the city, and when I and other restaurateurs should be allowed a harvest, nearly every church in the city opens lunch houses and conducts the same without paying any license?" The query was simply unanswerable.

There is a law of the city of Alexandria which forbids the exhibition of unsuitable pictures, and years before movies were known a law of the state made it a misdemeanor for any person to exhibit an indecent print. We suppose Richmond is governed by similar laws.

Many people not members of churches often voice their protest against churche becoming competitors in commercial pursuits for which privilege licenses are required of others. One of the causes which brought about the fearful French revolution was the fact that the church paid no taxes but entered into competition in agricultural and every other pursuit with those who did.

WAR MAKES PRESIDENTS.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger in speaking of the coming man, says:

If General Pershing captures Villa and saves his own army his military record will outshine that of Theodore Roosevelt.

But leading the Rough Riders in Cuba was sufficient to make the Col. President of the United States. What will be Pershing's reward?

The last Mexican War made Gen. Zach Taylor—a comparative nobody—President, and made him President when there were living the ablest coterie of American statesmen since the original group who founded our nation.

Yes, old Rough and Ready's shoulder straps carried him to the White House when such aspiring political leaders as Clay, Webster, Seward, Fessenden, Benton, Calhoun, Chase, Douglas and Everett were left at home.

We are a peaceful people, but we do love a fighter.

Every one of our wars has made a President and the Civil War made several.

Washington, Jackson and Taylor were direct products of the Revolution, the War of 1812 and the Mexican War.

Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Chattanooga, the Wilderness and Appomattox were Grant's stepping-stones from obscurity to two terms as President.

Garfield was a brilliant young officer and so was Rutherford B. Hayes. The war record of Hayes made him Governor of Ohio and that put him in the Presidential class.

A major in Colonel Hayes' regiment was William McKinley, and many voted for him as they also did for Roosevelt, who never stopped galloping after that hot day at San Juan in 1898 until he had been twice President.

In the first year of our Civil War the names of Grant, Sheridan, Sherman, Meade, Hancock and Thomas were unknown. Now the names of those who, like McDowell, were the big figures at first are scarcely recalled.

One of the marvelous things about the career of Washington was that for eight years he headed the Revolutionary Army and emerged a far greater man than he began.

British casualties in March, as compiled from the published lists, amounted to 1,107 officers and 19,317 men.

SEA ASSASSINS.

(Philadelphia Record)

The secret attack, the ambush, the disguised uniform, the false flag, are all sanctioned by the laws of war when they are used against an enemy and an enemy, in this case means a combatant enemy, not a mere subject of a hostile nation. They are not sanctioned when used against non-combatants. The laws of civilized warfare provide even that a combatant enemy may throw down his rifle and throw up his hands, and as soon as he abandons the role of combatant he becomes, though on the field of battle, a non-combatant, and his life must be spared. More than that, he must be fed and sheltered as well as circumstances will permit, and treated with mercy.

But the submarines are sea assassins. It is urged in their behalf that they cannot distinguish friend from foe, a belligerent from a neutral. Very likely that is true; but all the denunciation that the commander of a submarine escapes because he can't tell a belligerent vessel from a neutral must fall upon the Government that sends the submarines forth to ply the trade of sea assassins against non-combatants, and even neutrals.

The German Government raised the issue that merchantmen with guns lost their pacific character and became naval auxiliaries. Well, that isn't international law, and it never was; but conceding it, what does the point amount to- Instead of hunting for armed merchantmen, the German submarines are taking the safer course of hunting for unarmed merchantmen, including neutral vessels. During this month a considerable number of unarmed merchant vessels belonging to England and France have been torpedoed. But besides this, out of 31 vessels sunk in a fortnight, or some such period, 10 belonged to neutral nations.

The submarine has no right to sink without warning even a British merchantman with guns. Still more repugnant to the laws of civilized war fare is it to sink British and French vessels that do not carry arms. And most abhorrent to the laws of nations and the law of humanity is it to sink without warning the merchant vessels of Denmark, and Holland and Norway and the United States.

The German Government has admitted that it is in violation of international law to sink with no warning unarmed merchant vessels. The right to distinguish between the armed and the unarmed is not conceded by the law of nations, but it is asserted by Germany. And yet the unarmed merchantmen are being attacked right and left. Has not the German Foreign Office, any influence, with the German Admiralty? Are neutral ships to be sunk with all on board, by sea assassins that frequently conceal their identity and which are, when it is convenient, disclaimed by the Governments that send them forth to sink any vessels they fall in with, with or without arms, of belligerent or neutral nationality, but always with many non-combatants on board?

NEWS OF THE DAY

Archie Pitman, a negro believed to be the assailant to Mamie Mason, at Blackstone, Thursday, was captured at Poe, a station just west of Petersburg, on the Norfolk and Western, yesterday afternoon by two railroad employes and turned over to four citizens of Blackstone. He is said to answer the description of the assailant.

Kenney Edmonds, colored, was instantly killed at the Southern Railway depot at Chatham, Tuesday afternoon. Edmonds was beating a ride on a double-header freight and when the car on which he was riding was about one hundred yards north of the telegraph office he jumped and in some way was thrown heavily to the ground crushing his skull, killing him instantly.

Hundreds of wild swans, which had apparently lost their way in the fog, dashed against the steamer Ericsson, early Thursday morning, while the vessel was in the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay. The huge birds shattered many panes of glass and caused so much disturbance that many passengers sprang from their berths and rushed on deck, thinking some mishap had befallen the boat. Several of the birds were captured.

That Jasper Allen was armed with a pair of brass knucks at the time that he attacked Will McCraw, now in jail at Roanoke, charged with murder of the last leader of the Allen clan, was established when the delegates to the Republican convention from Carroll county discussed the situation Beyond a shadow of a doubt, according to the statements of several of the "Hillsmen," young McCraw was compelled to shoot the mountain chieftain in order to protect his person.

FAMILY AVOIDS SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Thedford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whittaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble.

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, which I did and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people.
